

Job Fair & Business Seminar

8th of May, 2014 (Thursday)

9:00-17:00 (Admission available from 8:00)

▮ Venue

State Polytechnic of Jakarta (in University of Indonesia), Lecture hall

▮ Event Overview

The rapidly growing Indonesian market poses many issues for Japanese companies. And addressing those issues successfully can lead to major growth. By supporting employers in hiring the most outstanding personnel, and through presentations by richly experienced consultants on the best approaches to business issues, this event aims to provide participating companies with a whole new level of support. We sincerely look forward to your application and attendance.

Job Fair (Exhibitors)

Employment matching with Indonesia's top-level students

The event will include employment matching with students of technology at the University of Indonesia and State Polytechnic Jakarta, Indonesian universities that produce top-tier engineering scholars. The University of Indonesia is Indonesia's top-rated national university, and State Polytechnic Jakarta is a national college specializing in technology and operating on the campus of the University of Indonesia. Graduates of these two institutions are first-rate personnel recruited into public administration as well as by private-sector employers worldwide. At a special Interview Booth on event day, there will be opportunities for in-person interviews with students available for recruiting by Japanese firms. And a special space will be provided for businesses to present literature introducing themselves.

Business Seminar (Seminar guide)

How Japanese companies can respond to the growing Indonesian market

① Approaches to personnel relations issues

Personnel relations involve a range of issues including labor, personnel costs and more. Systems for acquiring superb personnel and developing human resources are essential to business growth. The seminar will explain the specific techniques for success

② Successful business alliances, M&A techniques

Japan's economic recovery has been accompanied by more vigorous business alliances and M&A activity, and Indonesia is no exception. Choosing alliance partners, forming partnerships, and post-M&A responses are all key points in achieving growth, and all present major issues to address. ABeam will explain the needed methods from the standpoint of our own experience.

③ Efficient systems operation and utilization for concentrating on core business

For a local subsidiary with insufficient IT staff, systems are necessary, but also present wracking difficulties. ABeam will explain the solutions, using specific case studies from among our own customers.

④ The roles of RHQs and of Indonesian firms

Japanese companies are increasingly establishing overseas regional headquarters. However, their organizational roles and relationship to local subsidiaries present pressing issues. We will explain how firms in Indonesia can relate to regional headquarters to best facilitate growth in Indonesian business.

Timely and pertinent information will be provided on the issues facing Japanese companies in the growing Indonesian market and how to handle them. Instructors will be consultants with abundant experience, including members from Japan.
